GOOD ROADS DAYS

Governor H. D. Hatfield's "good roads days" proclamation is as follows: Whereas, The commercial, financial, agricultural, horticultural, intellectual, social and moral development of our people are influenced by means of communication and the condition of the public highways, which brings us face to face with the need of good roads; and

Whereas, By improving our roads it is recognized that the greatest good will come to the greatest number of people within the state, which will return larger, quicker and surer dividends to all of the people; and

Whereas, In this state the people are full awakened to the benefits of better roads, linking together in ties of closer relationship the different communities, and affording avenues of commerce; and

Whereas, The good roads days heretofore proclaimed in the state have been of great benefit to all of the people of the state, as the betterment of roads is a matter of direct concern to every citizen;

Now, Therefore, I, Henry D. Hatfield, governor of the state of West Virginia, do hereby set apart Tuesday and Wednesday, July 18 and 19, A. D. 1916, for road work in the state of West Virginia, and do designate the aforementioned days as "good roads days" and declare the same public holidays and request that other business be suspended, as far as possible, and that every able-bodied citizen labor upon the public highway of the state during these two days, and that the work performed be of a kind that will make a lasting and permanent improvement, such as ditching, grading, dragging, graveling, draining, etc.,

It is encouraging that in so many parts of the state the citizens have voted to issue bonds and to tax themselves for the construction of permanent highways; but we must remember that a very large percentage of the total mileage of our roads must for many years be "dirt roads." It is upon the problem of putting and keeping these roads of the country people in good repair that the thought and effort of all good citizens on good roads days should be centered.

I further call upon the county court of each county to issue a proclamation requesting the people to turn out on these days and give their labor, and to assist in and see that a complete and systematic organization is effected so that at the close of the second day there will be no community or district within the borders of the entire state that will not bear testimony of the progressive and patriotic spirit possessed by the people of that community.

I also call upon the various commercial, fraternal, benevolent and other organizations, having for their purpose the improvement of the state and the betterment of mankind, to join with the officials and people of the respective communities, and to enthusiastically unite in improving their roads in their respective sections.

I also call upon all merchants, wholesalers, professional and business men to lend their influence, and to join in the movement to "Lift West Virginia out of the Mud."

I also request all road overseers, road engineers and all persons directly or indirectly identified with the movement for good roads to give their support in order to carry out this undertaking to a successful completion.

The liberality of the press in the last two years has done much to advance the cause of good roads in the state of West Virginia, and as improvement of the roads is a subject upon which all people can agree, I urge that the county and city press give them liberal assistance in organizing and arousing the people of each community to the importance of this subject, and do whatever they can to make the movement a success.

The schools, Sunday schools and churches will be benefited by the improvement of the roads, therefore, I request all teachers, superintendents, and pastors to announce the dates and do whatever they conscientiously can to help their respective communities.

Much of the success of the previous "good roads days" was due to the co-operation and loyal support of the good women of West Virginia who assisted in preparing dinners for those who labored. I therefore call upon them again, through their various organizations, to see that dinners are served to those who labor along the way, thereby showing their loyalty and continued interest in this great cause.

The most certain way to advance
